

Egmond Alan Franck

May 4, 1946 - March 30, 2025

Born in La Paz, Bolivia, on May 4, 1946, Egmond had a long and remarkable life. He is survived by his beautiful wife Jacqueline Delgado Franck and his four exceptional children: Diana, Pablo, Erich, and Andres. Egmond was a talented and studious individual—an electrical engineer by trade—who loved to tinker with model trains, craft wooden cabinets by hand, collect stamps, shoot photography with antique cameras, and watch cooking channels on YouTube. Egmond was a veteran who served honorably in the Air Force from March 1970 until March 1974. During his time in the Air Force, he was stationed in Wiesbaden, Germany, during the Vietnam conflict. Egmond served as a ground radio repairman, ensuring critical radio retransmission sites remained operational throughout Europe. He was an incredible father who helped his children learn to read music, coached them in sports, and helped with their calculus homework. His stoicism was his predominant character trait, but he loved his children and adored his wife. He will be remembered as a talented and loving man who gave tirelessly to provide for his family.

Eggy was a sweet friend who was proud of his beautiful family. He cared about his community, his neighborhood, and all the children in the community. He freely gave his time as a soccer coach, remained involved in school activities, and his calm presence was appreciated by all parents. His picture will remain in our soccer album and our hearts forever!

Rest peacefully, dear friend Egmond, and know that you made a difference in the lives of many.

“ Eggy was proud of his family and I'm also as proud knowing that he was a friend and family, that being a very special privilege. I will miss him, and that is also part of my life, keeping his light hugging us every day.

Thanks Eggy. ❤️💛💚

“ My dad was the best dad in the world. One time when my mom went to Bolivia, my dad had to take care of all 4 of us by himself. My dad knew that we were not very good at getting up to go to school. Plus my dad was always up early. His solution to get his kids out of bed early? Let us play Nintendo before school. We all got up very very early! I love you lots Daddy.

“ My dad took Erich, myself and a friend snowboarding several times so we could learn how and have a good time. And my dad HATED the snow. But my dad and my friend's dad would hang out in the lodge for hours while we were out on the slopes. He always supported all of our nonsense - thats just who he was. Love and miss you Daddy!

“ Growing up, when my siblings and I would misbehave my father would threaten to send us into the Army. Now I look back after serving in the Army for 24 years and realize that was the best threat ever. I miss you Daddy

“ My Tío, my father’s younger brother, was a kind and loving family man with a warm heart and a good sense of humor. Whether visiting us in Germany and Arizona or welcoming us to Colorado, he was always friendly and caring—never failing to ask how I was doing and, of course, would make his famous breakfast burritos.

I remember traveling with him, my Tía, and my cousins to La Paz, Bolivia, to visit family—a trip filled with lots of fun an adventure. The last time he came to visit with Tía Jackie, we went to the jazz festival to listen to some good music and have brunch, it was a lot of fun.

What I admired most was the bond he shared with my father. No matter the distance, they stayed close, always catching up with love and laughter—a true example of brotherhood.

He will be deeply missed, but his kindness and spirit will live on in our hearts.

“ We first became acquainted with the Franck family in the early 1990's when our daughters became friends at Weber Jr. High. Jackie, other moms and I traded off on pick up and drop offs for the girls and their friends.

The Francks have been part of our family all these years. After we retired and moved back home from California, and shortly after Pablo's accident, we soon learned that our daughter, Brooke, and Pablo were becoming a couple. And as Eggie so succinctly put it..."we saw that one coming". LOL

Our thoughts are forever with the entire family. He will be deeply missed by all.

With caring and love to all.
