“ Mary you will be greatly missed here on earth, but you were welcomed with open arms into heaven. Your family and friends here will miss you!! However, every time the breeze blows your letting them know that you are thinking of them, the warm sun on their cheek is a kiss from you. When its raining each drop represents all the great memories that was made for all to remember. When it snows and the wind blows...your heart is full of happiness because you don't have to put three layers of clothes on, start the vehicle up 15 minutes prior to you leaving, and drive through the snowdrifts or the slick roads :). I miss you, until we meet again. Love Linda and Kelly
