“ This time of year always reminds me of the scramble at Tool Specialist to fill the gift orders and charting the results for Ron as he pushed his way to the top sales producers. Rose and he were always excited to travel to Florida for the banquet and receive his awards for the year. Ron was modest in his efforts and took joy from his career. His customers were very appreciative of his work on their behalf. He was truly a fine gentleman in this aggressive business. I wish Rose all the best as she adjusts to this loss. Remember the happy times!
