

Trevor Vaughn Wolfe

May 26, 1988 - August 28, 2018

Trevor Vaughn Wolfe was born May 26th, 1988 in Newport Beach, California to Marshon Donley and Robert Wolfe. He spent the majority of his life in Longmont and Fort Collins, Colorado.

Trevor had a passion for plant life and nature, he went to CSU for botany and graduated in 2014. He started dating the love of his life, Olivia, in 2011 and they married in 2016. Together they loved to travel and learn about different cultures, he admired Anthony Bourdaine and loved food. He loved the outdoors- anything from snowboarding to camping and hiking. He was a member of the Rocky Mountain Swordplay Guild, he enjoyed reading books, and listening to Bassnectar. His love for Bassnectar wasn't just for the music, but for a deeper meaning behind the deep bass and unique sounds. Lorin Ashton has a perception of life that Trevor seemed to understand so well. The bass drop symbol is kind of a play on duality, in reference to the balance of positive and negative forces in the universe. Trevor understood that there was no absolute right or absolute wrong. There was a spiritual balance to life that Trevor appreciated and understood.

Trevor was a loyal friend, one that always lended an open ear and great advice. He was a true family man, an animal lover, and will be missed by many for his contagious laughter, and gentle kind heart. He is survived by his wife, Olivia, his mother, Marshon, and his father, Dave.

“ My name is Duncan Littlejohn, and I am reaching out from Sao Paulo, Brazil. I am so sorry I can not be there to celebrate the life of Trevor with the rest of you. I can only imagine it will be quite a celebration - just as he would have wanted.

I first crossed paths with Trevor while he lived in Boulder in the mid to late 2000's, and had the honor of working with him for a few years. We became good friend, and he was as solid as a friend could be. Straight forward, smart, honest, and always a welcomed addition to any circle. Knew it from the moment we met, and it kills me that I won't get to tell him how much his friendship meant to me. I am ashamed to say we didnt stay close once I moved away. Please forgive me and rest In Peace my friend. You already are greatly missed. Much love and deepest condolences to the family & friends of Trevor Wolfe. 🙏
